"Money is a curse." Very true, and the fellows whose parents have a little of the "curse" realize it now.

AMUSEMENT

Americans love to be amused and interested in something all the time. Clubs are tame, porch parties and pink teas are not quite strenuous enough for nervous Americans these days. Our appetite demands a stronger brew. In the news of the day we have our greatest interest. Baseball continues to be the absorbing topic for the regular fan but the standing of the respective clubs is known to very few compared with former years. Probability of war and actual war has created a thirst for war news and that thirst must be appeased. Never was the newspaper so popular as today. Even the circus has lost a great deal of its attraction. Carnivals are in disrepute in several cities. Baseball is almost forgotten in the smaller cities and towns. Clearfield has had very little in the line of popular amusement this year. We have the County Fair to look forward to and it will be sufficient. The Fair promises to be fine again this year. Let every man in the county pull together for the success of the County Fair.

THE NEXT GENERATION

Scientists are already busy on the absorbing topic of the next generation and what effect, if any, the war business is going to have on shaping the character of posterity. There is no doubt in the world that the military environment of the present will become a part of us, to a certain extent, and that try it as we may, we are going to find ourselves a little more militaristic than we have been in the past. It is only natural that while following the art of warfare we become interested in and make more of a business of warlike preparation for defense against any possible foe. Today there are thousands of men eager to die at the throat of a German army who two or three years ago would have hesitated to kill a sparrow. The war spirit is a life among us and is bound to bring out the sterner qualities and smother the finer instincts of human nature.

It does not follow that men are to become brutal and bloodthirsty. Our war is a war of assistance to those who have been wronged and indirectly can be called a war of defense. Brutality and bloodthirstiness are born of a desire for conquest and lust.

Now for the next generation, the unborn, those who will make up the population of the nation in the next quarter to one-half century. We cannot see them as any more warlike or belligerent than we are at present because love of peace and battles for righteousness have for so long been the program of our people that it will take more than one long war to make a nation of conquest out of us and besides the guiding hands of our nation are those of men who have no desire for anything except to promote everlasting and universal peace.

We can see, however, that the second generation will inherit a good share of that bravery which has prompted so many thousands of our young men to become warriors bold in the service of their beloved country.

The children of the Sammies bid fair to go down in history as the brave sons and daughters of the greatest warriors the world has ever seen. Their fathers having fought for justice and peace, they will ever defend that justice and peace so dearly purchased and in the future, should another foreign foe menace that peace we can safely look to the second generation to be imbued with such an inherited patriotism that they will fly to arms without resort to conscription. They will be eager to uphold the traditions of their fathers.

Heredity is most susceptible to patriotism and deeds of valor. There is a logical reason for this. A soldier's work is done, not for pay or gain, but because his work becomes a part of his life. He is ever conscious of his being a soldier. From morning until night he is alert and his very dress reminds him of his calling. All these things conduce to making bravery, patriotism and sacrifice a part of his life. In fact, they merge into his being to such an extent that these three elements crowd out all others.

In the second generation, the children of soldiers, lies the hope of world peace and universal justice. They will inherit the patriotism of their fathers, they will have seen the horrors of war for conquest, they will be quick to follow the glorious example of their soldier fathers in offering themselves on the altar of patriotism and quicker yet to recognize him who would conquer and crush him as we would crush the Mexican tarantula.

WANTS $1000 FOR SLANDER
Miller & Hartswick entered suit in the Hungarian language, a statement to the effect that he had had illicit relations with her. The Prothonotary's office yesterday made the statement publicly and in morning in which they ask damages the presence of the neighbors and as to the extent of $1000 for Mrs. Mary Mrs. Raiko alleges that it is wholly false and without the least bit of foundation. She brings this suit for vindication and money to save her from the stigma of a scandalous charge that on August 14th, 1917, she was defamed. The case will be heard Mrs. Raiko to the extent of $1000 for September term of court.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if you eat sour and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, hearthy or have any stomach disorders should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become cranks on the subject shortly.

Enlistment Notes

Sergeant Charles E. Grafton, formerly instructor at the local Y. M. C. A., who has been located at Blandburg, has taken the examination and will enter the officers' reserve corps training class at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and try for a Lieutenant's commission in the regular army.

J. Mitchell Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Chase, of Fourth street, who failed to win a commission at the recent Madison Barracks officers' training school on account of being under weight, enlisted at Hagerstown yesterday in the aviation branch of the service and came home last night for a day en route to Columbus, Ohio, where he expects to take up his duties.

Edward J. Duffon has received orders to report to the second officers' training camp which opens at Fort Niagara, August 27th.

Lieutenant Stayman Reed, one of the commission winners at Fort Niagara, arrived home yesterday and will spend several days with his father before departing to the officers' school at Annapolis Junction, Md., for a further training course before entering active service.

Chester Parks, and several fellow members of Sheridan Troop, are over from Tyrone on a brief visit.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, August 16.—Whether Ty Cobb is losing his title as king of baseball players isn't entirely demonstrated by his tremendous batting average for the year. On a recent visit to New York Cobb, besides doing most of the baseball hammering, pulled a play or two that by sheer audacity simply stunned Yankees and spectators alike.

Ty had driven out a home run and then had singled. He went to second base, and when Veatch reached first base the two of them worked a double steal, leaving Cobb on third and Veatch on second.

On a ball hit to the infield by Burns, Cobb sprinted for the plate and Veatch for third. Cobb saw he couldn't make it and easily beat Walters' throw to third, only to find that Veatch was here also.

Walters completely lost his head and, dashing to third he tagged both runners, putting Veatch out. Then he saw Burns wildly footing it for second, and, forgetting the plate was unoccupied, whipped the ball to second to get Burns. That was Cobb's cue. Like a flash he was up and off. He was within ten feet of the plate before Walters knew what was going on, and scored with no trouble.

Sam Crawford, the Detroit veteran, did not make the last trip east. Hugh Jennings has decided to keep him out of the game for all time, reserving him only for pinch hitting duty.

Connie Mack recently declared that Cruise and Hornsby of the Cardinals are the finest looking young players in baseball. He predicted that Hornsby eventually would attain the same degree of excellence voted Jack Barry.

Dave Robertson is back as a regular in the Giant outfield, in spite of the good start made by Joe Wilhoit, who was sent in to fill Robertson's place.

Chuck Wortman of the Cubs seems loomed for the minors, or else mere utility infielding duty for the Cubs. His fielding of the flashiest sensational sort may hold him in the majors, but his hitting is too woefully weak to be considered. Pete Kilduff, recently obtained from the Giants, is a far better hitter, and excellent fielder and a fast baserunner.

FILLING JACKIES' SWEET TOOTH

(By United Press)
Great Lakes Training Station, Ill., Aug. 17.—Caramels, 100,000 packages. Milk chocolate, 100,000 packages. Sweet chocolate, 12,000 packages. Salted peanuts, 50,000 packages. Sugar-coated peanuts, 60,000 packages.

That reads like an order for all the girls' seminaries in the world, but it is all intended for the 11,000 jackies in training here. In addition, they eat 240 gallons of ice cream, in cones, daily.

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quart of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will stay pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

DISTILLING OF BEVERAGES TO STOP SEPTEMBER 8

Food Products Can't Be Used For Liquor After That Date

Washington, Aug. 16.—The food administration made the important ruling today that all processes in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes must stop at 11 o'clock the night of Saturday, September 8. Any effort to construe the law to permit the use of wheat, corn, rye and other materials which had been hoarded, after that time, it was made plain, would be met with firm action.

It has been reported that some distillers have bought up tremendous supplies, especially in the corn market, in the hope that they would be permitted to make it into distilled spirits after the date set. The food administration has received a large number of inquiries along that line and as a result Mr. Hoover decided to put an end to any doubt that may have existed.

Spirits in Bond Not Affected

The drastic ruling has nothing to do with spirits in bond, which will be considered later by the White House and the food administration. As a result of the stand taken it is understood a great supply of corn and other foods which might have been turned into spirits will be diverted to other purposes, because it will be physically impossible for the distillers to use all of the stocks in hand in the manufacture of spirits by September 8.

Appointment of 28 men as Federal food commissioners in as many states was approved today by President Wilson. Commissioners of other states will be selected within a few days.

The state commissioners will administer the food control bill, in so far as it applies to state matters, and will coordinate state food activities with those of the food administration. All of the men will serve without pay. Howard Heinz, Philadelphia, was named for this state.

Sugar Gambling Stopped

New York, Aug. 16.—Speculation in sugar, which has been advancing in price for months, was banned on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange today at the instance of Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator. He requested the exchange to suspend all dealings in futures, based on his belief that the normal functions of such trading to stabilize prices is lost under present conditions, and operated to inflate prices.

Conditions were such, he said, as to stimulate speculation. He also asked the exchange to limit itself to cash transactions and to dealings solely between actual producers and buyers of sugar for their own requirements.

URGE GOVERNMENT TO FIX CONTROLLING COAL PRICE

Opponents There Balk on Co-operation With Labor and Will Appeal to Washington

Chicago, August 16.—Representatives of the Councils of Defense of 13 Middle West States, at a conference held here today, adopted resolutions urging immediate action by the Federal government in fixing a reasonable price for coal and regulating the distribution of fuel by the railroads, in order to relieve the crisis which threatens the country. A copy of the resolutions was telegraphed to President Wilson.

The conference adjourned to meet again in Chicago, next Thursday, when the representatives of the different states will report data to be gathered on the cost of coal production at various mines. Indiana has been at work collecting this information for three months, while Illinois and other states have similar investigations in progress. The figures on the cost of production of coal in the different states will be compared at the next conference and, probably, a committee named to go to Washington with the report. The various states will co-operate in very possible way with President Wilson and the federal coal commission in fixing the price of coal and arranging for its distribution.

Representatives from a number of states favored putting the entire coal problem up to the federal government, but Samuel Insull and Lavy Mayer, of Illinois, led a fight for the states to cooperate with the federal officials in working out the details of the plan and finally won their argument before the committee on resolutions.

Funeral services will be held from his late residence on South Side Sunday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Henderson officiating.

Interment will be made in Bloomington cemetery.

EVERY TWENTY-NINTH PERSON OWNER OF AUTOMOBILE

(By United Press)

With an automobile for every 11 persons in the state, Iowa led the country in 1916 in the number of motor cars per capita, according to official figures in the government office of Public Roads.

California was second with one car for every 12 inhabitants.

Nebraska and South Dakota had one for every 13. Arkansas stood last in the list of states with only one car for every 116 persons.

The national average was one for every twenty-nine. By sections the south had relatively the fewest cars in proportion to population.

School for Soldiers

In the mornings when the bugle rings out the reveille and you crowd out of your bunk reluctantly, possibly tired and sore from the previous day's work, you will find yourself wonderfully refreshed and cheered up by a few minutes' vigorous setting-up exercises. Watch their effect on yourself and you will see why they are so highly regarded by the most experienced soldiers of the army. It will be only a short time until you look upon the early morning setting-up drill as one of the pleasantest features of your day.

Then comes "washing up" and breakfast. Usually breakfast is followed by a half-hour for cleaning the barracks and bunks and putting clothing and bedding in order. Frequently the company commander will inspect the barracks immediately afterwards to make sure that every man has attended to his part of the work. There is then often some time which the trained soldier uses for attending to his personal needs, tidying up his clothing, and the like.

The remaining two or three hours of the morning are likely to be spent in drill—at first in "close order" and later in "extended order" also. These terms will be explained in another part of this course. As you advance, the drills will become more and more interesting. During the drill there are numerous short periods of rest.

In most camps guard mounting comes about noon. This consists of relieving the men who have been guarding the camp and turning over this duty to new men. Each soldier mount guard not oftener than once a week. After guard mounting the men go to dinner, which comes at twelve o'clock. At least one hour is always allowed for dinner and rest.

During the afternoons the work is likely to be varied and to include additional setting-up exercises and other drills, target practice, bayonet drilling. About five o'clock comes the evening parade and "retreat," when the flag is lowered or furled for the night. The band plays "The Star Spangled Banner," while all officers and soldiers stand at attention. The ceremony is designed to deepen each man's respect and love for the flag which he serves; it is always impressive. After the flag is lowered, it is carefully folded and escorted by the guard to headquarters, where it is kept until the next morning, when it is again raised.

Supper comes between five and six o'clock and is usually followed by a period of rest. In the training camps there will be many opportunities for a variety of healthful amusements—for sports, music, the theatre, and so on, as later described. Taps are sounded by ten o'clock. This is the signal to put out all lights, retire and keep quiet. "It closes the day for the soldier and sends him to his blankets a tired and sleepy man."

This is only a sample of a day in camp. On some days your company will go off on "hies." After a time there may be longer marches, when you will carry your shelter tents with you and will make your own camp each evening. These are days that will be especially interesting. You will learn the soldier's art of adapting yourself to new situations and making yourself comfortable.

Your officers will ask you to do nothing that they have not many times done themselves. They will ask nothing of you which any normal, healthy man cannot do. After a month or two of this training you will find that you have begun to take on some of the skill and self-reliance of a real soldier.

Lloyd George Praises Marching Engineers

Describes American Forces As "A Fine Body Of Men"

London, Aug. 16.—High tribute was paid to the American engineers who passed through the streets of London yesterday by Premier Lloyd George in an exclusive interview with the United Press today. He reviewed the khaki clad Americans from the war office while thousands were cheering them.

"The appearance of the soldiers had a real significance," said Lloyd George. "It means that behind them are a hundred million people who have never failed in anything they have sought to accomplish. They are a fine body of men."

POLICE OFFICER MONROE TALKS

Grateful to Tanlac for Wonderful Improvement in His Health

Officer W. S. Monroe, who lives at 1731 Sixth St., Harrisburg and is so popular among visitors to the park, said:

"My stomach had gone back on me entirely, I was constipated, and my kidneys troubled me greatly. I had no appetite, my food didn't digest well and I lacked energy. I felt tired and dispirited all the time, a though something unpleasant was going to happen. Nervousness, I guess."

"One day when I was down town I happened to talk with the Tanlac man and he told me of a number of cases similar to mine where the people, many of them right here in Harrisburg, had been cured by Tanlac. I bought a bottle and started taking it. Well sir, you can believe me or not, but the very first dose did me good. I could feel it sort of nosing around inside of me hurting out the trouble, and before I had finished the first bottle I felt a hundred per cent better."

THE JOINT ACCOUNT

Here is a splendid proposition for husband and wife.

In cases where a couple is thrifty and trying to get ahead, money may be deposited in a joint account, either savings or checking, and subject to withdrawal by either husband or wife.

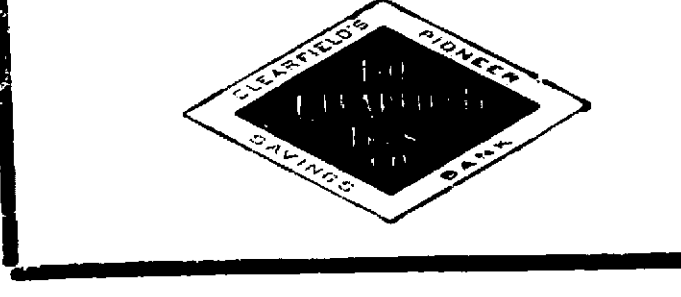

If either should die, the account remains the property of the survivor without court proceedings.

The Clearfield Trust Co. will take pleasure in opening an account in this way with any husband and wife.

Price Smashing

Having determined upon a policy that requires the immediate conversion of a large portion of their stock into cash, the proprietors of this store have launched a price-smashing campaign without precedent in this town. Throwing aside profits, sacrificing all margins and forgetting, even, wholesale costs, every vestige of gain has disappeared from these prices. This means that the offers to the buyers of this community an unequalled opportunity for money-saving.

And so it goes all through this big stock, wherever your eyes turn, a fluttering red tag, bearing a bargain price, greets them. Every nook and corner, every inch of space presents bargain chances of appealing value to you as a buyer.

You can profitably spend hours in this store, because every minute of search will be rewarded by a decided saving upon needed merchandise. Early buyers, of course, get the greatest selections and chances at many short lots of exceptional worth. Come at once and save money by every visit.

A Snake Story Told By Two Honest Fishermen

Fifty-four Inch Rattler Killed On Road Along Trout Run

Otis Knepp and C. G. Wilson drove out to Trout Run yesterday with six cans of catfish and while traveling an old road along the run were witnesses of a near-tragedy of the woods. While driving along they noticed a half-grown rabbit in the road ahead of them. The rabbit remained where he was until the horses were almost upon him when he was seen to spring two feet into the air and tumble down the bank into the brush. As the rabbit leaped from the road something was seen to flash from the brush toward where the rabbit had been sitting.

They drove past the place and being curious regarding the happening, Knepp stopped the team and went to investigate. When he reached the spot he stooped over and was looking closely in an attempt to discover the reason for the peculiar happening. He found out, too, for no sooner had he stopped than a wicked looking black rattler made a pass at him from the edge of a rock at the side of the road. We always heard it said that a snake could not reach out for you, but Knepp swears this luzzey projected himself straight at him for a distance of three feet diagonally across the road and having struck immediately drew back ready for another strike.

He picked up a rock and threw at it and Wilson coming to his rescue with a club slew the reptile, which measured 54 inches in length and sported ten rattles. They skinned their victim and brought the hide home along to prove their tale.

Local fishermen will attempt to propagate catfish in the streams adjacent to Clearfield. Twenty-five cans of young "cats" were received here today from one of the state hatcheries and will be placed in the lower end of Lick Run with the idea that they will do well in this water. If the experiment is a success Trout Run and Montgomery Creek will also be stocked with catfish.

THREE DAYS EXAMINATION YIELDS A TOTAL OF 126 MEN FOR ARMY

163 of Total Examined Have Claimed Exemption and 131 Out of 420 Are Found To Be Physically Unfit

RELIGIOUS GROUND WILL NOT EXCUSE

Before the hardworking exemption board and battery of doctors concluded their labors last evening, the third and final day of the draft examinations, a total of 142 men had been hustled through the mill. Of this number 95 passed the physical test and 47 were rejected.

A total of 44 had no reasons for exemption and their names will be placed on the list of soldiers to be. The remaining 51 filed claims for exemption as follows: married, 39; dependent parents, 9; religious convictions, 2; and aliens, 1.

In addition to the exemption claimed yesterday five additional claims for those examined Tuesday and Wednesday were also filed.

The board decided to adjourn until Saturday morning in order that Clerk Bain and his assistants may get their list in shape, so that the medical examinations and claims for exemption can be taken up for disposition Saturday morning.

It is the purpose of the board to pass upon all claims that are in shape for final action just as soon as they can be reached.

An all claims for exemption had to be made within seven days of the date of the call for examination yesterday was the last day for making exemption and the list will stand at 163. After filing a claim for exemption the applicant has ten days in which to file his affidavits and evidence.

If all the exemptions asked for were allowed another call extending into the fourth hundred would have to be made, thus it will be seen how careful the board must be in passing upon each claim for exemption, in order that he burden of service may be placed where it belongs and not be shifted from one man's shoulders to that of the other fellow later on, who is possibly no better able to serve than the first man called.

The board will also be able to grant fifty of the one hundred and sixty exemptions used for and still get the district's quota out of this call.

There is no hard and fast rule laid down by the regulations or orders concerning exemptions and as the Provost Marshal has seen fit to notify each local board that the draft was made to get soldiers, not to pile up exemptions, the chances are that many persons asking exemption will be forced to line up for service.

The following from the Provost Marshal may be of interest to those Cooper township citizens who are claiming exemption on religious grounds:

Please inform boards that persons considered under paragraph i of section 20 of the regulations will be drafted, will be forwarded to a mobilization camp, and will make up a part of the quota from the state and district from whence they come and will be assigned to duty in a capacity declared by the President to be non-combatant.

The paragraph referred to above deals with the drafting of members of religious sects whose principles forbid their members to participate in war in any form.

He Obedied The Law But Couldn't Hold Tongue

It Is Becoming Dangerous For An Alien To Voice His Thoughts

Considerable excitement was caused about town this morning when it was reported that an Austrian by the name of Mate Padisak had made the statement that he would rather cut his throat than fight for Uncle Sam. Other remarks of a similar nature were alleged to have been made by him. He was immediately picked up and given into the custody of the Sheriff until his case could be investigated. At a hearing held before Judge Bell late this afternoon he denied having said many of the things and while not being anxious to become a soldier he was not the vicious alien that was at first supposed. It developed in the course of the hearing that his desire for exemption from military service was increased through something he had read in the Slavok American, a newspaper printed in the language of his race, and as an outcome of the hearing an investigation of the kind of articles the paper is printing will be asked of the Federal authorities by the local court. Padisak was discharged after being given a plain lecture on what America expected of him in the way of return for his privileges.

Many Troops Will Not Be Sent to Camps

New Englanders Will Stand Good Chance of Going Direct Across

Washington, Aug. 17.—A second "rainbow" division composed of National Guard troops from each of the New England states will soon leave for France. It may leave simultaneously with the first rainbow division. Supplies are now being prepared.

POPE IS DEPRESSED

Rome, Aug. 17.—Pope Benedict is reported to be greatly depressed over the generally unfavorable reception accorded his appeal for peace. The Pope is said to be spending most of his time in his room.

ONE OUT OF FOUR TO SEE FIGHTING WITH U. S. ARMY

For the man who is picked for the national army, the chances are 4 to 1 that he will see little actual fighting in Europe. If he reaches the firing line, the chances of being killed are 60 in 1000 in a year; of being wounded 150 in 1000. He will be less liable to disengage than if he is working in a city. Furthermore, if he is connected with some branches of the service such as the heavy field artillery, he is not more likely to be killed than if he were working on an American railroad. These are some of the comforting figures culled by Roger W. Babson the noted statistician and published in the current issue of Babson's Weekly Report. "Of course, it is very difficult to obtain reliable figures," says Mr. Babson, "but we understand that about 69 men per 1000 are being killed in a year, and about 150 men out of each 1000 are wounded, although most of these wounded return again to the trenches."

School for Soldiers Lesson No. 5

This course of thirty daily lessons is offered to the men selected for service in the National Army as a practical help in getting started in the right way. It is informal in tone and does not attempt to give binding rules and direction. These are contained in the various manuals and regulations of the United States army to which this course is merely introductory.

LESSON NO. 5 FIRST DAYS IN CAMP

When the time comes for you to enter the army, you will be instructed to report at some convenient place in your own neighborhood. The exact instructions will be given later. As quickly thereafter as proper arrangements can be made, you and the other men who are assigned to report to the same officer will be transported to the training camp (or cantonment as it is sometimes called).

There will be nearly forty thousand men in each cantonment. The task of preparing for your arrival is enormous. Each cantonment will require 25,000,000 feet of lumber, 7,500 doors, 37,000 window sashes, 4,655 casks of Portland cement, and 5,000 yards of broken stone. The water supply of a cantonment will be 2,500,000 gallons a day. It will have its own sewerage system, fire department, bakeries, ice plants and hospitals. It will even require a gigantic steam-heating plant. Sixteen cities, each with a population of 40,000 well cared for—that is the task.

In spite of the best efforts, it is possible that some of the details may remain unfinished at the beginning of your camp life. There will be certain amount of bustle and apparent confusion on the surface. Bear in mind that underneath it all lies a well-thought-out plan. In working out this plan everything possible has been done for the comfort and convenience of individual soldiers. Don't grumble if you run into some temporary delays or inconveniences at the beginning. One of the tests of a good soldier is his cheerful willingness to take things as they are and make the best of them.

You are naturally interested in forming some idea of the camp life of a soldier. The description which follows will help you in forming this idea. However, there will be many changes as you go along in your training.

As the men in the National Army must get ready in record-breaking time, their training will be more strenuous than that of soldiers in peace. You will find there is plenty of hard work ahead of you. The average energetic young American will be glad of it.

The soldier arises for the day usually at about six o'clock, a little earlier in the summer and a little later in the winter. The buglers sound the call known as reveille. The men dress and fall in.

Your first experience of military drill will probably consist of "setting-up exercises," which ordinarily occupy the first few minutes of the day. They consist of certain movements of the head, arms, trunk and legs which are carefully designed not merely to develop your muscles but also to increase your skill, grace, self-control and self-reliance. At the same time they will also put you into the right

Tobacco Fund Is Now More Than $25.00

One Gift Of $5 Received From An Unknown Friend Of The Sammies

We are going to print the tobacco coupon for just one more day. It will appear for the last time tomorrow. The response has been greater than we anticipated and before the sun goes down tomorrow evening there will be money enough on hand to make a whole regiment of Sammies happy. If there are any more who feel disposed toward giving a mite for tobacco fund we will be glad to accept it. We must especially mention one good hearted chap who donated the five dollar bill today. We know not who he was but his heart is in the right place.

Funds received from yesterday noon until today at 3 p. m. are as follows:

Pennsy Employees Busy On 1200 War Gardens

1000 Acres of Right of Way Under Cultivation and Producing

Nearly 1200 "war gardens" are being cultivated, this summer, on vacant land of the Pennsylvania railroad and its lines east of Pittsburgh, by employees, for the use of themselves and their families. The value of the crops raised will probably exceed a quarter of a million dollars. Altogether more than 1000 acres have been planted, and are now producing crops of potatoes, peas, beans, tomatoes, corn and various other garden vegetables. The average size of each plot of railroad land, tilled by an employee, falls just short of an acre.

Special arrangements were made this spring, by the Pennsylvania railroad, to induce employees to take up unoccupied land belonging to the company, a plan was worked out whereby any employee could, without formality, obtain the use of as much land as he could properly cultivate, and upon a mere nominal rental. All that was necessary for an employee to do if he desired to raise a "war garden," was to apply to his superior officer and sign a simple form of lease. The land would then be placed at his disposal.

Former Clearfielder Killed By Train

Lawrence McGowan Victim of Accident at Girard, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. William McGowan, of West River street, received the sad intelligence last evening that their son Lawrence McGowan had been killed during the afternoon at Girard, Ohio, where he had been employed for some time past.

Young McGowan, who had many friends in Clearfield was 24 years of age. He had been employed by the Goodrich Rubber Co., as a tire tester for some time, and was a fine young man.

He was killed when an automobile in which he was riding was struck by a train at a grade crossing at Girard, Ohio.

His body was brought to the home of his parents here today. Besides his parents he is survived by five sisters and two brothers. Of these Mrs. Chester McQuillen, Misses Anna and Eva and Frances McGowan reside in Clearfield.

THE RUMOR EXPLAINED

London, Aug. 17.—American soldiers reported to have been wounded and taken to a hospital at Bath were not members of Pershing's expedition but individual members of the Canadian and English armies.

NEW CONFIDENCE IN RUSSIAN ARMY

Petrograd, Aug. 17.—General Korniloff expressed new confidence in the army today in an extensive conference with Premier Kerensky. "In the past month the morale of the army has been considerably strengthened. I hope the army will soon be completely regenerated," he said.

COURT NOTES

Mike Mazier, of Houtzdale, gave his wife a terrible beating along about the latter part of June and Mike was sent down to jail by Squire Harpster charged with aggravated assault and battery, non support, etc. On July 17th he was liberated on a suspended sentence on condition that he pay his wife $20 per month for her support and that he would also make himself scarce around her home.

Shortly after he was liberated Mazier went back home and camped right there, refusing to do any work and making himself generally obnoxious. He was again sent to jail and was before the court this morning. In answer to Judge Bell's questioning Mazier said he went home for his clothes and it took him the entire 8 days to get them together. He was given another chance with the alternative of three years in the penitentiary if he was ever found in Houtzdale again or failed to produce the $20 per month for his family's support.

Robert H. Wyse on behalf of his son, Harry J. Wyse, entered suit in the prothonotary's office this morning against the Northwestern Mining and Exchange company, in which he asks for damages to the extent of $10,000 for personal injuries received by the son while employed as a miner in one of the mines of the defendant company located in the DuBois region.

The injury occurred nearly two years ago and before the compensation law went into effect and as the parties never could agree upon a settlement this suit was brought before the legal time limit for recovery had elapsed.

William T. Darr and Miller & Hartwick are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Paris Will Be Great European Seaport

Dream of Centuries Seems To Be About To Come True

(By United Press)
Paris, July 25.—(By Mail)—Paris as one of the world's greatest seaports of the future is today more than an idle dream.

Ever since the 17th Century the idea of a seaport Paris has been occasionally discussed by learned Frenchmen and approved as highly advisable. But it has taken the big war to develop the plan so that today it is a potent possibility. The war has demanded the absolute necessity of providing Paris with a navigable waterway direct to the sea, so that ocean going ships might bring their cargoes into dock at the French metropolis.

The "Paris Seaport" scheme has been handed down from generation to generation with additions and modifications on paper. Then came the great floods of 1910 when whole quarters of Paris were inundated and traffic was suspended for days. It was then definitely decided that a canal system must be built to relieve the main stream in case of new floods and the idea of widening and deepening the Seine was also considered.

Today the Prefect of the Seine has issued circulars to the Municipal authorities, outlining a definite and new scheme for rendering the Seine navigable for big shipping from Paris to Rouen and proposing that a port be built at Gennevilliers, outside of Paris with easy access to the capital.

Civil War Prices for Meat in Chicago

No Reason For Advance In Principle Article Of Foodstuffs

Chicago, Aug. 17.—Civil war prices for meat were offered today. Consumers were paying the highest prices in history for beef, beef roast, pork, lamb, ham and calf, according to several Chicago retailers.

There seems to be no reason for advance. In the west there has been the best grazing land in years due to the prices go higher. They will, the retailers say that the price of pork house which is 40c a pound will go to 50 and 60c shortly. Other beef will advance according, it was said. Butterhouse advanced 8c in the last week due to the advance of $1.00 per hundred pounds. Retailers say the increase has only started. Ham and bacon has gone as high as it will for the present, retailers claim. Bacon is now 45c a pound.

Mrs. Thomas Gray and Mrs. Richard Burr, of Winburne, was visiting with friends in town today.

NATURE HEALING BATTLE TORN RIDGE

Vimy Ridge, Where Heavy Shelling Was the Fiercest, Is Now Huge Bank of Flowers and Grass

THE SCARS OF BATTLE ERASED

By William Philip Simms.
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

With The British Armies in The Field, July 10.—(By Mail)—Vimy Ridge is covered with flowers. A few weeks ago I watched this hill explode and blaze the Day of Judgment while the Canadians with their artillery and mines turned it into a seething, boiling mound of heat.

Today old lady Nature has completed her miracle. Vimy Ridge is green. Poppies, cowslips, convolvulcs, purple thistle-mepps, daisies and belated speedweeds dush the 9000 battlefield with color, while rank grass hides the smaller shell-holes. But one explanation is possible for this change, for all manner of vegetation and seed were buried in a mud and blood, the sterming of Vimy's heights in April. Nature has worked some wonder as it assumed of the only left as wanted to cover it over and turn it out of sight.

Vimy Ridge runs about a half west of Lens almost due south towards Arras. Notre Dame de Lorette is a great ridge running generally east and west, the eastern slopes ending west of Lens where Vimy begins.

From the top of Notre Dame de Lorette can be plainly seen about four miles away. The whole far plain to the north and northeast is dominated by this great hill. It also dominates the south and west. Small wonder the two ridges were each of the two German high command posts to fight at all costs, for so long as they held the British and French were powerless from Arras to Ypres.

So the French stormed Notre Dame and won it. The whole ridge was drenched in blood, the ground was shattered, and it seemed that this spot would ever be hallowed of the mightiest growing thing.

Today I found Vimy a new scene. At times grass was so high as to my waist. I stumbled through abandoned trenches and a carpet of recent shell-holes now hidden under vegetation. Now and then a dead and over concealed natural mine of barbed wire, or hidden machine gun, or even the toe of an enemy soldier's boot was forgotten, looking up at the sky or haystack. Under the grass of this new scene, however, the old battle scars were still there, waiting for the first man to step on them. The ground was everywhere a mass of holes, some lying about and others deep, with everything from the top of a shell in them. Convulsed and lacerated and pierced, the ground was a mass of unexploded shells, and the equipment of the dead soldiers. They are now the only things that will grow.

"Money is a curse." Very true, and the fellows whose parents have a little of the "curse" realize it now.

AMUSEMENT

Americans love to be amused and interested in something all the time. Clubs are tame, porch parties and pink teas are not quite strenuous enough for nervous Americans these days. Our appetite demands a stronger brew. In the news of the day we have our greatest interest. Baseball continues to be the absorbing topic for the regular fan but the standing of the respective clubs is known to very few compared with former years. Probability of war and actual war has created a thirst for war news and that thirst must be appeased. Never was the newspaper so popular as today. Even the circus has lost a great deal of its attraction. Carnivals are in disrepute in several cities. Baseball is almost forgotten in the smaller cities and towns. Clearfield has had very little in the line of popular amusement this year. We have the County Fair to look forward to and it will be sufficient. The Fair promises to be fine again this year. Let every man in the county pull together for the success of the County Fair.

THE NEXT GENERATION

Scientists are already busy on the absorbing topic of the next generation and what effect, if any, the war business is going to have on shaping the character of posterity. There is no doubt in the world that the military environment of the present will become a part of us, to a certain extent, and that try it as we may, we are going to find ourselves a little more militaristic than we have been in the past. It is only natural that while following the art of warfare we become interested in and make more of a business of warlike preparation for defense against any possible foe. Today there are thousands of men eager to die at the throat of a German army who two or three years ago would have hesitated to kill a sparrow. The war spirit is a life among us and is bound to bring out the sterner qualities and smother the finer instincts of human nature.

It does not follow that men are to become brutal and bloodthirsty. Our war is a war of assistance to those who have been wronged and indirectly can be called a war of defense. Brutality and bloodthirstiness are born of a desire for conquest and lust.

Now for the next generation, the unborn, those who will make up the population of the nation in the next quarter to one-half century. We cannot see them as any more warlike or belligerent than we are at present because love of peace and battles for righteousness have for so long been the program of our people that it will take more than one long war to make a nation of conquest out of us and besides the guiding hands of our nation are those of men who have no desire for anything except to promote everlasting and universal peace.

We can see, however, that the second generation will inherit a good share of that bravery which has prompted so many thousands of our young men to become warriors bold in the service of their beloved country.

The children of the Sammies bid fair to go down in history as the brave sons and daughters of the greatest warriors the world has ever seen. Their fathers having fought for justice and peace, they will ever defend that justice and peace so dearly purchased and in the future, should another foreign foe menace that peace we can safely look to the second generation to be imbued with such an inherited patriotism that they will fly to arms without resort to conscription. They will be eager to uphold the traditions of their fathers.

Heredity is most susceptible to patriotism and deeds of valor. There is a logical reason for this. A soldier's work is done, not for pay or gain, but because his work becomes a part of his life. He is ever conscious of his being a soldier. From morning until night he is alert and his very dress reminds him of his calling. All these things conduce to making bravery, patriotism and sacrifice a part of his life. In fact, they merge into his being to such an extent that these three elements crowd out all others.

In the second generation, the children of soldiers, lies the hope of world peace and universal justice. They will inherit the patriotism of their fathers, they will have seen the horrors of war for conquest, they will be quick to follow the glorious example of their soldier fathers in offering themselves on the altar of patriotism and quicker yet to recognize him who would conquer and crush him as we would crush the Mexican tarantula.

WANTS $1000 FOR SLANDER
Miller & Hartswick entered suit in the Hungarian language, a statement to the effect that he had had illicit relations with her. The Prothonotary's office yesterday made the statement publicly and in morning in which they ask damages the presence of the neighbors and as to the extent of $1000 for Mrs. Mary Mrs. Raiko alleges that it is wholly false and without the least bit of foundation. She brings this suit for vindication and money to save her feelings that on August 14th, 1917, Dema wounded feelings. The case will be heard Mrs. Raiko to the extent of $1000 for September term of court.

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if you eat sour and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, hearthy or have any stomach disorders should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become cranks on the subject shortly.

Enlistment Notes

Sergeant Charles E. Grafton, formerly instructor at the local Y. M. C. A., who has been located at Blandburg, has taken the examination and will enter the officers' reserve corps training class at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., and try for a Lieutenant's commission in the regular army.

J. Mitchell Chase, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Chase, of Fourth street, who failed to win a commission at the recent Madison Barracks officers' training school on account of being under weight, enlisted at Hagerstown yesterday in the aviation branch of the service and came home last night for a day en route to Columbus, Ohio, where he expects to take up his duties.

Edward J. Duffon has received orders to report to the second officers' training camp which opens at Fort Niagara, August 27th.

Lieutenant Stayman Reed, one of the commission winners at Fort Niagara, arrived home yesterday and will spend several days with his father before departing to the officers' school at Annapolis Junction, Md., for a further training course before entering active service.

Chester Parks, and several fellow members of Sheridan Troop, are over from Tyrone on a brief visit.

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, August 16.—Whether Ty Cobb is losing his title as king of baseball players isn't entirely demonstrated by his tremendous batting average for the year. On a recent visit to New York Cobb, besides doing most of the baseball hammering, pulled a play or two that by sheer audacity simply stunned Yankees and spectators alike.

Ty had driven out a home run and then had singled. He went to second base, and when Veatch reached first base the two of them worked a double steal, leaving Cobb on third and Veatch on second.

On a ball hit to the infield by Burns, Cobb sprinted for the plate and Veatch for third. Cobb saw he couldn't make it and easily beat Walters' throw to third, only to find that Veatch was here also.

Walters completely lost his head and, dashing to third he tagged both runners, putting Veatch out. Then he saw Burns wildly footing it for second, and, forgetting the plate was unoccupied, whipped the ball to second to get Burns. That was Cobb's cue. Like a flash he was up and off. He was within ten feet of the plate before Walters knew what was going on, and scored with no trouble.

Sam Crawford, the Detroit veteran, did not make the last trip east. Hugh Jennings has decided to keep him out of the game for all time, reserving him only for pinch hitting duty.

Connie Mack recently declared that Cruise and Hornsby of the Cardinals are the finest looking young players in baseball. He predicted that Hornsby eventually would attain the same degree of excellence voted Jack Barry.

Dave Robertson is back as a regular in the Giant outfield, in spite of the good start made by Joe Wilhoit, who was sent in to fill Robertson's place.

Chuck Workman of the Cubs seems loomed for the minors, or else mere utility infielding duty for the Cubs. His fielding of the flashiest sensational sort may hold him in the majors, but his hitting is too woefully weak to be considered. Pete Kilduff, recently obtained from the Giants, is a far better hitter, and excellent fielder and a fast baserunner.

LEMONS BRING OUT THE HIDDEN BEAUTY

Make this lotion for very little cost and just see for yourself.

What girl or woman hasn't heard of lemon juice to remove complexion blemishes; to bleach the skin and to bring out the roses, the freshness and the hidden beauty? But lemon juice alone is acid, therefore irritating, and should be mixed with orchard white this way. Strain through a fine cloth the juice of two fresh lemons into a bottle containing about three ounces of orchard white, then shake well and you have a whole quart of skin and complexion lotion at about the cost one usually pays for a small jar of ordinary cold cream. Be sure to strain the lemon juice so no pulp gets into the bottle, then this lotion will stay pure and fresh for months. When applied daily to the face, neck, arms and hands it should help to bleach, clear, smoothen and beautify the skin.

Any druggist will supply three ounces of orchard white at very little cost and the grocer has the lemons.

News of the Day Culled From Various Sources

Enabling Our Readers to Keep In Touch With The Outside World

DISTILLING OF BEVERAGES TO STOP SEPTEMBER 8

Food Products Can't Be Used For Liquor After That Date

Washington, Aug. 16.—The food administration made the important ruling today that all processes in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes must stop at 11 o'clock the night of Saturday, September 8. Any effort to construe the law to permit the use of wheat, corn, rye and other materials which had been hoarded, after that time, it was made plain, would be met with firm action.

It has been reported that some distillers have bought up tremendous supplies, especially in the corn market, in the hope that they would be permitted to make it into distilled spirits after the date set. The food administration has received a large number of inquiries along that line and as a result Mr. Hoover decided to put an end to any doubt that may have existed.

Spirits in Bond Not Affected

The drastic ruling has nothing to do with spirits in bond, which will be considered later by the White House and the food administration. As a result of the stand taken it is understood a great supply of corn and other foods which might have been turned into spirits will be diverted to other purposes, because it will be physically impossible for the distillers to use all of the stocks in hand in the manufacture of spirits by September 8.

Appointment of 28 men as Federal food commissioners in as many states was approved today by President Wilson. Commissioners of other states will be selected within a few days.

The state commissioners will administer the food control bill, in so far as it applies to state matters, and will coordinate state food activities with those of the food administration. All of the men will serve without pay. Howard Heinz, Philadelphia, was named for this state.

Sugar Gambling Stopped

New York, Aug. 16.—Speculation in sugar, which has been advancing in price for months, was banned on the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange today at the instance of Herbert C. Hoover, food administrator. He requested the exchange to suspend all dealings in futures, based on his belief that the normal functions of such trading to stabilize prices is lost under present conditions, and operated to inflate prices.

Conditions were such, he said, as to stimulate speculation. He also asked the exchange to limit itself to cash transactions and to dealings solely between actual producers and buyers of sugar for their own requirements.

URGE GOVERNMENT TO FIX CONTROLLING COAL PRICE

Opponents There Balk on Co-operation With Labor and Will Appeal to Washington

Chicago, August 16.—Representatives of the Councils of Defense of 13 Middle West States, at a conference held here today, adopted resolutions urging immediate action by the Federal government in fixing a reasonable price for coal and regulating the distribution of fuel by the railroads, in order to relieve the crisis which threatens the country. A copy of the resolutions was telegraphed to President Wilson.

The conference adjourned to meet again in Chicago, next Thursday, when the representatives of the different states will report data to be gathered on the cost of coal production at various mines. Indiana has been at work collecting this information for three months, while Illinois and other states have similar investigations in progress. The figures on the cost of production of coal in the different states will be compared at the next conference and, probably, a committee named to go to Washington with the report. The various states will co-operate in very possible way with President Wilson and the federal coal commission in fixing the price of coal and arranging for its distribution.

Representatives from a number of states favored putting the entire coal problem up to the federal government, but Samuel Insull and Lavy Mayer, of Illinois, led a fight for the states to cooperate with the federal officials in working out the details of the plan and finally won their argument before the committee on resolutions.

EVERY TWENTY-NINTH PERSON OWNER OF AUTOMOBILE

(By United Press)

With an automobile for every 11 persons in the state, Iowa led the country in 1916 in the number of motor cars per capita, according to official figures in the government office of Public Roads.

California was second with one car for every 12 inhabitants.

Nebraska and South Dakota had one for every 13. Arkansas stood last in the list of states with only one car for every 116 persons.

The national average was one for every twenty-nine. By sections the south had relatively the fewest cars in proportion to population.

School for Soldiers

In the mornings when the bugle rings out the reveille and you crowd out of your bunk reluctantly, possibly tired and sore from the previous day's work, you will find yourself wonderfully refreshed and cheered up by a few minutes' vigorous setting-up exercises. Watch their effect on yourself and you will see why they are so highly regarded by the most experienced soldiers of the army. It will be only a short time until you look upon the early morning setting-up drill as one of the pleasantest features of your day.

Then comes "washing up" and breakfast. Usually breakfast is followed by a half-hour for cleaning the barracks and bunks and putting clothing and bedding in order. Frequently the company commander will inspect the barracks immediately afterwards to make sure that every man has attended to his part of the work. There is then often some time which the trained soldier uses for attending to his personal needs, tidying up his clothing, and the like.

The remaining two or three hours of the morning are likely to be spent in drill—at first in "close order" and later in "extended order" also. These terms will be explained in another part of this course. As you advance, the drills will become more and more interesting. During the drill there are numerous short periods of rest.

In most camps guard mounting comes about noon. This consists of relieving the men who have been guarding the camp and turning over this duty to new men. Each soldier mount guard not often than once a week. After guard mounting the men go to dinner, which comes at twelve o'clock. At least one hour is always allowed for dinner and rest.

During the afternoons the work is likely to be varied and to include additional setting-up exercises and other drills, target practice, bayonet drilling. About five o'clock comes the evening parade and "retreat," when the flag is lowered or furled for the night. The band plays "The Star Spangled Banner," while all officers and soldiers stand at attention. The ceremony is designed to deepen each man's respect and love for the flag which he serves; it is always impressive. After the flag is lowered, it is carefully folded and escorted by the guard to headquarters, where it is kept until the next morning, when it is again raised.

Supper comes between five and six o'clock and is usually followed by a period of rest. In the training camps there will be many opportunities for a variety of healthful amusements—for sports, music, the theatre, and so on, as later described. Taps are sounded by ten o'clock. This is the signal to put out all lights, retire and keep quiet. "It closes the day for the soldier and sends him to his blankets a tired and sleepy man."

This is only a sample of a day in camp. On some days your company will go off on "hies." After a time there may be longer marches, when you will carry your shelter tents with you and will make your own camp each evening. These are days that will be especially interesting. You will learn the soldier's art of adapting yourself to new situations and making yourself comfortable.

Your officers will ask you to do nothing that they have not many times done themselves. They will ask nothing of you which any normal, healthy man cannot do. After a month or two of this training you will find that you have begun to take on some of the skill and self-reliance of a real soldier.

Lloyd George Praises Marching Engineers

Describes American Forces As "A Fine Body Of Men"

London, Aug. 16.—High tribute was paid to the American engineers who passed through the streets of London yesterday by Premier Lloyd George in an exclusive interview with the United Press today. He reviewed the khaki clad Americans from the war office while thousands were cheering them.

"The appearance of the soldiers had a real significance," said Lloyd George. "It means that behind them are a hundred million people who have never failed in anything they have sought to accomplish. They are a fine body of men."

POLICE OFFICER MONROE TALKS

Grateful to Tanlac for Wonderful Improvement in His Health

Officer W. S. Monroe, who lives at 1731 Sixth St., Harrisburg and is so popular among visitors to the park, said:

"My stomach had gone back on me entirely, I was constipated, and my kidneys troubled me greatly. I had no appetite, my food didn't digest well and I lacked energy. I felt tired and dispirited all the time, a though something unpleasant was going to happen. Nervousness, I guess."

"One day when I was down town I happened to talk with the Tanlac man and he told me of a number of cases similar to mine where the people, many of them right here in Harrisburg, had been cured by Tanlac. I bought a bottle and started taking it. Well sir, you can believe me or not, but the very first dose did me good. I could feel it sort of nosing around inside of me hurting out the trouble, and before I had finished the first bottle I felt a hundred per cent better."

THE JOINT ACCOUNT

Here is a splendid proposition for husband and wife.

In cases where a couple is thrifty and trying to get ahead, money may be deposited in a joint account, either savings or checking, and subject to withdrawal by either husband or wife.

If either should die, the account remains the property of the survivor without court proceedings.

The Clearfield Trust Co. will take pleasure in opening an account in this way with any husband and wife.

A Snake Story Told By Two Honest Fishermen

Fifty-four Inch Rattler Killed On Road Along Trout Run

Otis Knepp and C. G. Wilson drove out to Trout Run yesterday with six cans of catfish and while traveling an old road along the run were witnesses of a near-tragedy of the woods. While driving along they noticed a half-grown rabbit in the road ahead of them. The rabbit remained where he was until the horses were almost upon him when he was seen to spring two feet into the air and tumble down the bank into the brush. As the rabbit leaped from the road something was seen to flash from the brush toward where the rabbit had been sitting.

They drove past the place and being curious regarding the happening, Knepp stopped the team and went to investigate. When he reached the spot he stooped over and was looking closely in an attempt to discover the reason for the peculiar happening. He found out, too, for no sooner had he stopped than a wicked looking black rattler made a pass at him from the edge of a rock at the side of the road. We always heard it said that a snake could not reach out for you, but Knepp swears this huzzar projected himself straight at him for a distance of three feet diagonally across the road and having struck immediately drew back ready for another strike.

He picked up a rock and threw at it and Wilson coming to his rescue with a club slew the reptile, which measured 54 inches in length and sported ten rattles. They skinned their victim and brought the hide home along to prove their tale.

Local fishermen will attempt to propagate catfish in the streams adjacent to Clearfield. Twenty-five cans of young "cats" were received here today from one of the state hatcheries and will be placed in the lower end of Lick Run with the idea that they will do well in this water. If the experiment is a success Trout Run and Montgomery Creek will also be stocked with catfish.
